SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

THE SILVER CONTROVERSY.

The San Francisco Journal of Commerce has been publishing the opinions of prominent San Franciscans on the Silver question. That of S. T. Gage, Assistant to the President of the Southern Pacific Company, is reported as follows:

All the controversy on the silver issue has been brought about by bondholders, foreigners and the National banks, who are influenced by various causes, chief of which is that they want a fluctuating currency as a basis of speculation, and they can speculate in silver. Some Congressmen, who have not closely studied the subject, have fallen into the trap. So far as Mr. Gage has observed, the producers, the tillers of the soil and the manufacturers have not quarrelled with silver and do not seem to be worried over the existing state of affairs. If the Government agrees to pay a bond in a certain kind of currency, that agreement should not be tampered with, whether the currency specified be gold, silver, paper or nickel. All honest men stand by their agreements, and the Government should be no less nor no more honest than individuals, but should keep to the face of the bond."

The Senate Committee on Commerce Tuesday reported in executive session adversely on the nomination of McGrath whom the President appointed Collector of Internal Revenue in West Virginia. McGrath was appointed to take the place of a man who was removed. It is stated by some that this is a test case, and that all appointees to fill vacancies caused by removals will be rejected, but the more conservative members of the Senate do not take this view of the case.

John Searles, Government Commissioner, who recently visited the Sandwich Islands, makes a bitter report relative to Clans Spreckles' methods in his management of the sugar business. He says for the last seven years the price of refined sugar in San Francisco has averaged two cents per pound higher than in New York, and he recommends the immediate abrogation of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty.

The New York Tribune's Washington correspondent gives facts and quotations from letters which seem to prove that there was an understanding between Garland and his Pan-Electric partners that the telephone suit ordered last Summer should be begun by his subordinate and that the order should not be issued until after the Attorney-General had left Washington and got beyond the reach of the telephone.

Senator Dolph said that he hoped to bring up his bill for the admission of Washington Territory as soon as the Blair educational bill is disposed of. He thinks that the time is ripe for the consideration of the measure. He is confident the bill will pass the Senate. The feeling about the Seattle riot has subsided and is no longer considered an obstacle to the passage of the bill.

The Sacramento Bee declares United States Attorney Dickson has done splendid work in bringing the polygamists to justice, and deserves well of the nation. The Administration should reward his services with a Federal Judgeship.

In regard to California appointments, Senator Stanford says that he will not oppose the confirmation of them, and he expresses the opinion that they will all be confirmed.

The friends of silver are encouraged at the apparently growing strength of public opinion favorable to bimetallicism in the East.

As easy a way as any to get rid of the Treasury surplus would be to unload it in Nevada for the Senatorial fight.

A. C. Cleveland and wife, of White Pine county, have returned home from an extended visit in the East.

The House has passed the bill annexing the northern part of Idaho to Washington Territory.

THE SILVER DOLLAR. The Bi-Metallists Gaining Strength at the East.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—Senator Jones said to-day that a revolution in opinion on the silver dollar is taking place in the East. He says that the Silver Bureau is receiving evidences every day of a great awakening on the subject. He cited as an illustration the action of the New York Legislature, which some time ago instructed the New York Senators to vote for the suspension of silver coinage, and later reconsidered and withdrew the instruction. Senator Jones thinks that the Bland bill for free coinage will not come up in the House for sixty or ninety days, and he is confident that it will pass the House. In the Senate he thinks the bill will have a very close vote, but that it will get through. The President will veto the bill, but the effect of passing it in both branches of Congress will be of great value.

Senator Jones says that within a year the country will be practically unanimous on the question of bi-metallism, and that no hostile legislation to silver will be possible. The Chronicle correspondent asked Senator Jones whether he intended to make a speech on the subject. He replied that he would if a bill was presented, or if the subject came up in some definite form for action. The discussion that has already taken place on silver, in the House especially, has been pushed on the country by demagogues who were over-eager to unload speeches for the benefit of the spectacular effect it would have on their constituents. Scott, of Pennsylvania, Symes, of Colorado, and Mills, of Texas, spoke their pieces to empty seats, and the severest criticism was passed upon them for abusing the rules of the House to speak on silver when other subjects were being considered.

How Many Bonds Will be Called.

Secretary Manning, says the Bulletin, was a little slow in issuing his first call for bonds. It took him nearly ten months to make up his mind in the matter. Since then he has done well. Interest on the first call for $10,000,000 ceased on the 1st, and interest on the second call of like amount will cease on Monday. The bonds embraced in the third call will cease to bear interest on the first of April. Parties holding three per cents are anxious to know how long the Secretary proposes to keep up the calls at these short intervals. This will, of course, depend upon his available surplus. The net revenue of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885, was $24,729,164 less than for the previous fiscal year, while the net expenditure was $12,100,691 greater. This cut the surplus at both ends, and the amount available for the reduction of the debt was $10,929,854 less than for the previous year. In other words, the surplus available for the reduction of the debt in 1884-5 was $63,403,771, against $104,393,725 in 1883-4. No bonds were called in during the last seven months of 1884-5, so there must have been a considerable surplus for this purpose on hand on the 1st of July, 1885. To this must be added the accumulation for the last six months of 1885 to get the amount available when Secretary Manning's first call was issued. Possibly it is his intention to keep the calls monthly until the end of May, so as to get $60,000,000 of the three per cents cancelled by the close of the current fiscal year.

Morrison's Tariff Bill.

The Secretary of the Treasury has written to Representative Morrison, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, in regard to the probate effect the passage of the Morrison Tariff bill will have upon the public revenues. In his letter he says that the net reduction computed on the basis of last year's importations would be about $12,000,000. In regard to the proviso limiting the maximum of dues to a certain ad valorem it says it leaves room yet for controversy on values, but that values could be approximately ascertained by customs officers. He suggests, however, that the provisions be made final and not leave this important question to in after years be subjected to the uncertainties of a trial in court with the consequent cost to the people of a refunding of the duty.

BLAINE'S BOOK. Completion of His "Twenty Years of Congress."

The second and concluding volume of Blaine's "Twenty Years of Congress" has been published. It embraces the period between Johnson's installation as President and Garfield's election. The earlier chapters are occupied mainly with the reconstruction problems, the contest between the President and Congress, and the impeachment trial. Grant's eight years' administration are discussed in a generous and catholic spirit, and the closing chapters deal with current questions of political discussion. In closing Blaine says: "The national Government has in these twenty years proved its strength in war and its conservatism in peace. The self-restraint which the citizens of the Republic exhibited in the hour of need, the great burdens which they bore under the inspiration of public duty, the public order which they maintained by their instinctive obedience to the command of law, all attest the good government of a self-governing people. Full liberty to criticize the acts of persons in official station, free agitation of all political questions, frequent elections that give opportunity for prompt settlement of all issues that tend to insure popular content and public safety. No government of modern times has encountered the dangers that beset the United States, nor achieved the triumphs wherewith the nation is now crowned. The assassination of two Presidents, one inaugurated at the beginning, the other at the close of this period, while the cause of profound national grief, reflects no dishonor upon the popular Government; neither crime had its origin in the political institutions or its growth in the social organization of the country. Both crimes received the execration of all parties and all sections. In the universal sorrow which they inspired, in the majestic supremacy of the law which they failed to disturb, may be read the strongest proof of the stability of a government which is founded upon rights fortified by intelligence and inwrought with the virtues of the people."

BEN BUTLER ON CLEVELAND.

The General Says the President Will not be Renominated.

NEW YORK, February 24.—General B. F. Butler was sitting in the parlor of the Fifth Avenue Hotel to-night, when a reporter called on him. The reporter suggested that Mr. Cleveland would be renominated by his party if he wanted a renomination. The General said: "I do not agree with you. The fellows who wanted something and got nothing will be too much for him. Scarcely one of his appointees has any other vote at his command than his own individual vote. The men who are disappointed are the men who have the machines. The good men elected Cleveland, but the bad men, the machine men, control and can manipulate the conventions." "Some persons think," said the reporter, "that it will be the old tickets on both sides."

"Blaine has certainly grown of late. There is no one else who anywhere near approaches him in his own party. It is possible that he may be renominated."

"There is some little talk that Judge Foraker may be the candidate."

"You may set it down for a fact that for many years to come the country will not hanker after an Ohio man for President. Ohio is no longer an October State. There are no State elections now prior to the Presidential election in the same year except in Mr. Blaine's own State. He has kept Maine as a September State."

Dr. W. T. Browne, Superintendent of the Stockton State Insane Asylum, died in San Francisco at 11 P. M. last Monday night. He was in usual health and good spirits, and on that day dined with Superintendent Sedgwick at the House of Correction. The remains were taken to Stockton. The Post says Dr. Browne has had charge of the Stockton Asylum for about two years, and has brought the management of the institution up to a high degree of perfection. Deceased was looked upon as one of the ablest Superintendents of the Asylums in this country. He was a man of fine presence, genial nature and possessed of great executive ability. He had been troubled with heart disease for several years, and it is thought that his death, which was caused by the malady, was hastened by an investigation of his conduct as Superintendent of the Asylum, brought about by the malicious charges of a discharged female attendant. Dr. Browne was sixty-five years of age, and leaves a widow to mourn his loss. He was for many years Assistant Superintendent of the institution for the insane at Stockton, and was appointed Superintendent upon the resignation of Dr. Shurtleff.

The Assault on Attorney Dickson.

SALT LAKE, February 23.—George Q. Cannon sent a message to-day to United States Attorney Dickson, desiring it to be understood that he had no feeling but horror and detestation at the assault upon him last night, and expresses the hope that none of his friends would go on the bonds of the assailants. They ought, he said, to meet with the full vigor of the law. He would have written, but was too ill and feeble. Dickson returned his compliments in a letter, assuring Cannon that never for a moment connected him with the matter, and hoping for his speedy recovery.

Five men are now in custody for the assault—two sons of Apostle Cannon, Frank J. and Hugh A., his nephew Angus M., and S. A. Kenner and James Buckley. All are in jail, but Kenner got bonds in $1,500.

A Racy Reckitation.

Mrs. Jas. Brown Potter, the wealthy and beautiful New York theatrical amateur, created a sensation at Secretary Whitney's musicale by repertory "Hosler Joe," a voluptuous and highly flavored composition. The hostess and the lady guests felt greatly surprised, and the affair is the talk of the town. Mrs. Whitney greatly regrets not having ascertained beforehand the programme of her fair and voluptuous minded guest. Mrs. Potter rendered the selection with dramatic spirit. The gentlemen present applauded her rapturously.

The Truckee steam laundry is running in full blast and gives employment to ten or twelve persons, including three women. Reno will soon do likewise.
Senator Fair is preparing a brief to be submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, giving reasons why the Mint at Carson should be reopened. He presented the case Tuesday to the Secretary, who asked for a written statement.
George Wellmumster, an old resident of Surprise Valley died at his home on Goose Creek, eleven miles below Bidwell, last Saturday night at 11 o'clock P. M., of jaundice and fever. He has been sick over six weeks. He was a member of N. E. Lodge, No. 265, F & A. M., and was buried with Masonic honors, Feb. 22.
SENATOR FAIR AT WORK.—A Washington dispatch of the 23d says: Senator Fair, since his arrival in Washington, has been devoting the greater part of his time to work in the Departments for the benefit of his Nevada constituents. He is striving to secure the re-establishment of the Mint at Carson City, and to build up the star route service in Nevada. Fair says the mail facilities of the people of the State have been shamefully reduced during the past Summer and this Winter, and he has strong hopes of restoring the old service.
RAILROAD FARES FROM RENO.—W. D. Phillips, the C. P. agent at this place, yesterday received the following from the general office: From Reno to Omaha and Kansas City, first-class limited, $30; third-class, $20; from Reno to Chicago, first-class limited, $42 50; third-class, $32 50—latest cut.
KINKEAD FOR GOVERNOR.—The Silver State says: James Sloan, who visited Carson on his way home from San Francisco, says ex-Governor Kinkead appears to be the favorite of very many Republicans for Governor at the ensuing election.

THE TRUCKEE STEAM LAUNDRY.
It is in Full Blast and Has Plenty of Work.
The Truckee Republican of Wednesday says:
The Republican reporter yesterday paid a visit to the new steam laundry, and took in the whole works. At the door he was received by Mr. Geo. L. Murdock, the Superintendent, who left the work he was so busily engaged in, and showed the scribe all over the establishment, even going so far in his urbanity and politeness as to proffer him a dip through the mangle, but as the reporter already belonged to the press, he didn't care to be pressed again. There are nine persons, aside from the Superintendent, employed in and about the establishment, three women being included in the force. Joseph Wells has charge of the washing department, and at the rate at which they were turning out the white shirts and other garments, an immense amount of work can be done with the present force. The drying room is a curiosity, and consists of a good sized room provided with clothes horses, on which are hung the wet clothes, after passing through the wringer. The horses run on rollers, and being once filled, are run back into the room, which is heated by iron pipes and kept at a proper temperature to ensure rapid drying of the garments. The washer, into which the clothes are first placed, is a monstrous affair, consisting of a big drum revolved by steam, lined with corrugated boards, similar to a wash-board. Into this receptacle are thrown the soiled clothes, and the washer set in motion. After a thorough scrubbing in this rolling bath, they are taken out and placed on the receiving table, and each piece gone over separately. If spots or dirt marks are found, they are taken in hand, and by means of a brush, soap and water, are removed, before going up into the boiling tub. Should they be extra dry garments, especially woollen ones, where the dirt clings closest, they are introduced to the pounding tub, where a few applications of the pounder releases the obdurate dirt, and they are consigned to their fate in the rinsing tub, from there to the bluing tub, and onward to the squeezing maws of the wringer. The visitors will at once be impressed with the fact that there is no special wear upon the clothes. There is no rubbing on ragged wash-boards, no twisting and tearing of hands and clothes. All goes smoothly and without any perceptible wear. Every one knows that Chinese washermen will destroy a new shirt in three or four washings, with the ruinous acids and compounds used. Here there is nothing of the kind. Soap and water, aided and abetted by steam and gentle manipulation by experienced hands, extracts the dirt and leaves them ready for the hands of the starcher and ironer. The ironing room, yesterday, was a busy room. The large heating furnace covered with heating irons, the ladies at the ironing table, the boss ironer with his machine for polishing collars and cuffs, the horses containing dry clothes, being drawn out and made ready for the ironer, the groan of the mangle as it pressed the wrinkles out of the sheets, pillow-cases and towels, all showed that business was being done, and that the employees knew how to do it. The boiler is placed in the rear end of the building, and close by is the engine that keeps the machinery in motion. At present the water is taken from the main supply pipe running from George Schaeffer's reservoir on the mountain side. D. W. Leach has charge of the engine, and has built and put up the various tubs for hot and cold water, and other requirements that abound throughout the institution. A room is being added to the main building, to be fitted up as a sleeping apartment for some of the help. It is a source of great gratification to the stockholders, particularly, and to the people of Truckee, that the laundry is completed. The delay in its construction has been unavoidable, and those who have visited the establishment since its completion, only express wonderment that it was completed so soon. The large wringer has not yet arrived, but is expected daily, and once in place, the Truckee steam laundry will be one of the most complete laundries in the State, competent to do all the work of the town, and in a style and at a price that will commend itself to the patronage of the entire public. The cost has been larger than at first anticipated, and will, when all complete, figure in the neighborhood of four thousand dollars. Some of the figures as to cost already incurred are as follows: Cost of building, $1 500; washing machine, $350; mangle, $175; wringer, $275; hand wringers, $35; dry house, $90; tanks and tubs for hot and cold water, and soap, $100; engine and boiler, $750; ironing machine and fixtures, $50; beside these items, are included the steam pipes, the various odds and ends that go to make up quite a sum. The directors have, however, spared nothing in the way of expense, to make the laundry perfect in all its details.
AURORA.—The Del Monte mill, at Aurora, is running steadily on ore from the Duvan, Del Monte and Humboldt mines. At present there are only fifty men at work in the camp.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD.—A W. Seigel offers a reward of $150 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who stole a house which he had built on his land on Happy Creek, near Quin River. The Silver State remarks that it is not often that a thief ventures to steal a house, and it seems that there ought not to be much difficulty in ascertaining where the building was taken in a country where there is not a structure of any kind to a hundred square miles of territory.
INSURANCE COMPANIES.—The Anglo-Nevada Assurance Corporation has been appointed agent of the Royal, Norwich Union and Lancashire Insurance Companies, the agency of which was formerly held by Falkner, Bell & Co. The new contract will go into effect March 1st. The arrangement was made recently in London, the agency being offered to William Greer Harrison of the Anglo-Nevada Company while he was abroad.
COLUMBUS MINING DISTRICT.—Last Saturday's San Francisco Report devotes two pages to a description of Columbus Mining District, Esmeralda county, in which is situated the famous Holmes mine, formerly the Northern Belle, which has produced over $12,000,000, and which is yet considered valuable property.
Ten-Cent Votes.
The Cincinnati Enquirer publishes the annexed dispatch:
VINCENNES, Ind., Feb. 16.—Yesterday's returns from Democratic county primary elections are coming in slowly. A very large vote has been polled and considerable money has been put in circulation by the various candidates. In Vincennes Township many votes were bought for ten cents and others for $10. W. W. Berry will beat Sam. W. Williamson for Senator almost two to one. Mason J. Niblack will become the next Legislator; W. A. Cullop, Prosecutor; J. R. Alsop, Clerk; James A. Dick, Auditor; Sid. Badolett, Treasurer; M. L. Sedlmeyer, Sheriff; Thomas Bailey, Recorder; J. C. Hannon, Surveyor; Ed. Cooper, Coroner, and Messrs. Bailey and Thompson Commissioners.
